Corporate Overview

Symantec Corporation (NASDAQ: SYMC), the world’s leading cyber security company, allows organizations, governments, and people to secure their most important data wherever it lives. Enterprises across the world rely on Symantec for integrated cyber defense against sophisticated attacks across endpoints, infrastructure, and cloud.

More than 50 million people and families rely on Symantec’s Norton and LifeLock Digital Safety platform to help protect their personal information, devices, home networks, and identities at home and across their devices.

Software and Services Portfolio

Enterprise Security

Symantec protects the Cloud Generation through our Integrated Cyber Defense Platform, the industry’s most complete portfolio for securing cloud and on-premises environments. We support 15,000 enterprises in taking full advantage of cloud computing without compromising the security of the people, data, applications, and infrastructure that drive their business. Our advanced technology portfolio is powered by the world’s largest civilian threat intelligence network, enabling us to see and protect against the most advanced threats.

Consumer Security

The solutions and subscriptions from our consumer brands, Norton and LifeLock, comprise the Digital Safety platform, which protects information, devices, networks, and identities. Our Norton-branded solutions provide multi-layer security for desktops, mobile operating systems, and home networks, defending against increasingly complex online threats to individuals, families, and small businesses. With the acquisition of LifeLock, we strive to protect all aspects of peoples' digital identities.

As more than one-third of Americans and 650 million people globally were cyber crime victims in 2016, we trust in the Digital Safety platform to secure consumers' digital lives—now and well into the future.
